Let's ALL Back The Attack With WAR BONDS

PUTS CEILING ON FARM PAY

Jones Orders $2,400 Maximum for Agricultural Workers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—In a move unprecedented in American farm history, a wage control program for agricultural workers, with maximum ceilings of $2,400 a year, has been ordered by war Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

Aids of the administrator, who disclosed the plan, said war food administration (WFA) labor offices have been directed to set up state farm wage boards to hold hearings and establish maximum wages, much in the manner of the war labor board (WLB) in determining ceilings for industrial workers. On the basis of the 1942 wage stabilization act, Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson put farm wages under supervision of the WFA but officials did not consider it necessary to take immediate general action toward control.

Now however, farm wages have reached the highest point in 20 years. Many workers have gone into war plants and those remaining on farms have repeatedly received what amounts to a blanket deferment from selective service. There are few restrictions on their transfer from one farm to another. Thus they are in a position to bargain.

A recent report of the bureau of agricultural economics stated farm wages generally had shown a sharp increase in the previous 12 months.

For the year 1943, wages stood at 264 per cent of the 1910-14 average, and 64 points above the 1942 level. Present rates are said to average $63 a month with board, compared with $50.91 a year ago and with $26 for the 1935-39 average. In some areas wages are considerably higher than the average.

The farm wage boards will be instructed to set ceilings only for specific types of work or farm operations for certain designated Guerillas!

Guerilla fighters and underground forces present a formidable threat against the Axis forces in Europe. They are organized in every one of the occupied countries and are ready to come into the open and join the Allies when invasion gets under way.

Associated Press correspondents in the European war areas have written a series of articles about the guerillas in the various occupied countries. The first appears today—

$516,040 NOW COUNTY TOTAL IN BOND SALE

E Bond Mark Climbs to $239,187; Canvass of Homes Pushed.

Marion county took another husky step toward its Fourth War Loan goal yesterday when sales amounting to $177,053.75 pushed the county's total up to the $516,040.50 mark.

Although this leaves a long way to go before the $2,838,000 goal is reached drive leaders voiced considerable satisfaction with the response of individuals who have made purchases so far in the campaign.

The big problem at this stage of the drive, leaders emphasized again today, is to see that the workers get out and contact every Marion county home. They'd like to have this job finished 100 per cent by next Thursday.

Big Sale of E Bonds

Individual purchases are carrying the ball so far in the campaign, and today's new total includes $239,187.50 in E bonds purchased exclusively by individuals. Private individuals also have bought some of the other issues, but it is the E bond column that is watched as the best barometer of public purchases.

As of today, Marion county residents had bought 29.2 per cent of the E bond quota assigned to the county. The $2,838,000 total quota for Marion county has been set up to include $819,000 in E bonds, and today's total was near the one-third mark toward that figure. So far, 5,984 persons have bought E bonds in the Fourth War Loan drive, and many of the same persons are expected to buy one or two more bonds before the drive closes.

Nearly All Buying

Meanwhile, various groups of workers reported they are receiving assurances of substantial purchases in the campaign from nearly every person contacted, most of the prospective buyers planning to boost their purchases up to the point where they equal one-third of a month's income. That's the individual quota assigned to every Marion county resident in professional, business or industrial work. For farm owners and operators the quota is $1 an acre.

The $819,000 quota set up for individual buyers of E bonds isn't the only responsibility of individuals in the Fourth War Loan, leaders reminded prospective buyers today. The treasury department has also asked individuals to buy $191,000 in F and G bonds and $369,000 in other denominations, or a total quota for individuals of $1,379,000 as compared with $1,459,000 for corporations.

Universal Cooler To Launch Drive in Rally Monday

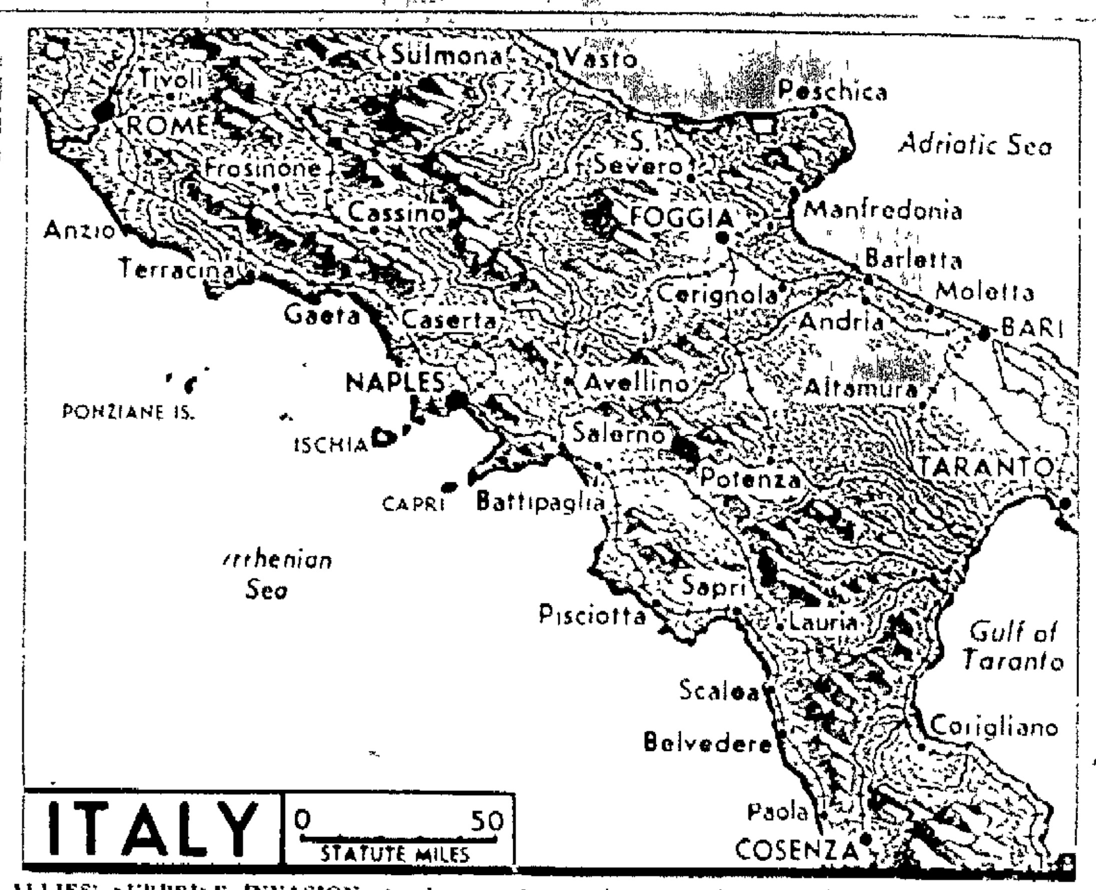

One of the most colorful events announced to date in the Fourth War Loan drive will be staged at the Universal Cooler Corp. plant Monday afternoon when all employes assemble for a 20-minute program in which Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert of Columbus will be the principal speaker.

Planning a lively kick-off program to start the campaign for $44,000 in E bonds among the company's employes officials in charge of the drive there will follow through with a plan in which uniformed girls will move a group of booths from one department to another until the entire plant has been canvassed thoroughly in the interests of extra bond purchases.

Jack Danner, general chairman for the Universal Cooler's drive, said his committee members have already held two meetings to plan for the campaign, and that Harold Grigsby, payroll deduction chairman for the County War Finance committee, and Earl Andrews, treasury representative for the Universal Cooler workers, attended both meetings. The stage is all set to begin work immediately after the kick-off meeting.

Factory workers' solicitation is under the general direction of

Another German City Feels Big Bomb Raid

Magdeburg in Saxony Hammered by RAF After 1,000 Allied Planes Hit Invasion Coast by Day.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 22—The RAF's campaign to flatten German industrial targets crushed the city of Magdeburg in Saxony last night under more than 2,000 long tons of bombs as the major phase of a great aerial operation which included a smaller attack on Berlin.

The new blows against Germany, following up a heavy 2,300 long ton assault on the capital the previous night, cost the RAF 55 bombers.

They came while the Germans themselves were stabbing at London and southeast England with two sharp raids by a force of approximately 90 bombers.

Magdeburg a city of 300,000 on the left bank of the Elbe river, about 83 miles southwest of Berlin, is a junction point for the main railways to Leipzig, Kassel and Hamburg—all previously hit heavily.

Magdeburg was bombed exactly a week before by Mosquitos while a big fleet of British bombers concentrated on the aircraft manufacturing center of Brunswick, 26 miles away.

Attack Called "Heavy"

The air ministry described last night's blast at Magdeburg as a "very heavy attack" and said great fires were left burning.

Other bombers struck unidentified targets in France, following up yesterday's 1,000-plane daylight assault on the so-called "rocket gun coast."

The Germans, goaded into making a counter blow, sent one group of bombers across the channel before midnight and another early this morning.

The Nazi retaliation, although puny by present-day allied bombing standards, was the heaviest in months. Guns thundered, the skies were alight, and incendiaries as well as high explosives were dropped in the London area and other parts of southeast England.

Damage and casualties were heavier than usual. The first raid, before midnight, cost the Germans eight planes, the largest number of night raiders downed over Britain in 10 months.

Great Fleets Meet

The RAF night bombers crossed the channel in a 45-minute after-dark procession as tail-enders of yesterday's American-British armada, estimated at 1,000 planes, were returning from the dawn-to-dusk blasting of the French invasion coast.

The Vichy radio said a British-American force had attacked the Marseille area.

Yesterday's daylight operations cost the attacking force 11 planes. Nineteen German fighters were shot down. The allied attackers dropped perhaps 2,000 tons of bombs.

Enemy fighter opposition was described as weak.

Hundreds of U. S. Troops See First German Air Raid

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 22 — Hundreds of American soldiers newly arrived in Britain experienced their first air raid last night as the biggest German bombing force in months struck at London and southeast England.

Ninety enemy planes roared across the channel in two separate attacks, one before midnight and the other early this morning, to bring a painful reminder of the 1940-41 "blitz" even though their attack was comparatively puny.

About 30 of the planes reached the London area.

The first alert sounded at 9:10 p. m. and almost immediately guns began booming, searchlights wove fantastic patterns across the sky, and the raiders rushed in so low their drone could be heard through the thunder of the guns.

HIT POSSIBLE LANDING POINTS

Jap Bases in Pacific Blasted with Regularity; Enemy Fighters Scarce.

By The Associated Press

Allied planes, lashing at Japanese bases with time-table regularity, hurled more bombs into the campaign to soften up strategic enemy positions for possible new landings in two sectors of the Pacific.

In both invasion-marked areas —Madang, northern New Guinea, and the sprawling chain of Marshall islands—no Japanese air interception was reported in the latest raids announced at allied headquarters.

Absence of enemy fighters indicated the Japanese are holding back their aerial forces to strike at any further landing attempts, or that the heavy toll of air losses may have caused a serious break in the Tokyo supply line.

Plane Losses Heavy

The Nipponese have sent up sizable air units to oppose raids recently but the cost has proved high, with more than 2000 of their planes listed in allied communiques as probably destroyed in the Rabaul area this month alone.

Madang itself was not mentioned in today's war bulletin from General MacArthur's headquarters, but attacks along the New Guinea coast and in the interior plainly were directed at facilitating the drive toward that major Japanese base.

Bombers dropped 74 tons of explosives in the second heavy assault in two days on Japanese positions in the Ramu valley.

American troops are less than 60 miles from Madang in the Sidor invasion beachhead established Jan. 2. An Australian

Hitler Reshuffles Command for Defense Against Invasion

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 22—Adolf Hitler has completed his anti-invasion command with the appointment of Marshal Erwin Rommel as inspector general for the defense of Europe, a London newspaper reported today as allied transport chiefs in Britain announced completion of a "shadow" supply service for the armies that will attack western Europe.

Hitler has completely reshuffled his high command in preparation for the allied attack from Britain, according to neutral reports quoted by the Daily Express.

In his new role, Rommel holds a post corresponding to that of Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, inspector general of the German air force. None will be a field commander but each will be in supreme control of their respective services, it was said.

Field Marshal Karl Von Runstedt has been transferred from command of the western defenses of Europe to southeastern Europe, where he will be in charge of the areas behind Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein's armies retreating from Russia, the Express said.

Col. Gen. Eduard Dietl, according to the Express' informants, has been recalled from Finland and placed in command of reserve forces inside Germany proper.

The allies new "shadow" service will marshall all railways in Britain under an instant timetable by which hundreds of freight trains can be set in motion from arms storage depots to jumping-off ports within a few hours, it was disclosed.

Each train in the "shadow" carries a code number. For example, "ABC-4217" might mean a

SURPRISE ATTACK FROM SEA WINS NEW POSITIONS

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 22—British and American commandos, rangers and troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army invaded the west coast of Italy in an amphibious landing deep behind the German lines at dawn today in a bold stroke to break the winter stand of the Germans below Rome.

An announcement said the initial operation was carried out successfully and the "situation is developing satisfactorily."

At the same time, British, American and French troops opened up a general overland frontal attack along the Gustav line at Cassino.

The first troops got ashore before dawn and as they spread out over the terrain succeeding waves followed and the task of landing supplies began almost immediately.

Landing Place Revealed

(A German broadcast said the landing was made between Nettuno, near Anzio about 30 miles southeast of Rome and the mouth of the Tiber, just above the Pontine marshes.

(The harbor of Nettuno has been occupied, the broadcast said.

"In view of the impossibility of breaking German resistance at the southern Italian front," the broadcast declared, "the allies decided in the course of last night to resort to a system of landings.")

("Under cover of darkness," the broadcast continued, "they succeeded in forming bridgeheads between Nettuno and the mouth of the Tiber south of Rome and in occupying Nettuno harbor. There are as yet no details about the progress of the heavy fighting which developed * * *.")

From the German announcement, it was apparent the Fifth army had sidestepped the easily-defended Pontine marshes protecting Rome, and that only a few scattered hills stood between the landing forces and the Eternal City—in contrast to the mile-upon-mile of towering mountains on the Fifth and Eighth army fronts to the south.

The plunge threatens to close the escape roads of the German Tenth army at the Rome bottleneck if the Nazis try to withdraw. These roads are 12 and 22 miles from Nettuno harbor.

First reports from advanced allied headquarters did not indicate the degree of German resistance encountered by landing units.

The smash into the Liri valley came from the Cassino area where American and French troops have been pressing against the German Gustav line. American troops crossed the Rapido river.

British troops seized Tremensuoli, about a mile north of captured Minturno, and Vandra, about a half mile north of Garigliano.

The invasion changed the entire picture in the battle of Italy, placing allied troops behind as well as in front of the enemy in that area, and the next 24 hours will probably make the Germans decide whether to stay in the pocket and fight it out, or withdraw northward.

Apparently they had no great force in place to oppose the landings.

Troops Get Set

Moon, wind and light were considered in picking the hour of the attack. The troops had several hours of night in which to get into good positions ashore.

An allied officer described the invasion as "hazardous" and indicated the stiffest resistance could be expected as soon as the Germans recovered from their surprise.

The allies were in the rear of the Gustav line" along the Garigliano and Rapido rivers, against which the Fifth army has been battering for 10 days, and the "Adolf Hitler" line thrown up some six miles behind this.

A special communique announced the new thrusts but did not give the location of the landing. The bulletin said merely American and British troops went ashore "along a beach front extending several miles from north to south."

Landing in the pale light of a dwindling moon, the big force, including American rangers and British commandos, seized the stretch of shore and began a fierce battle to extend their beachhead.

The offensive followed terrific air attacks in which German communications from the north were shattered.

For the past weeks the air forces have been waging an intensive "softening up campaign," directed mainly against communications into Rome and the airfields of the Rome area.

Bombers Cover Area

On the eve of the attack bombers ranged over the area between Florence and Rome, smashing all routes into the eternal city.

Air attacks prior to the landings included bomber raids yesterday on Salon and Istres Le Tubes airfields near Marseille—bases from German Torpedo-equipped aircraft.

All the experience gained in the Sicilian and Salerno landings were employed in today's new invasion of central Italy. The current operation, however, is coupled with an overland drive in the Liri valley.

The object of the present operations in Italy, Gen. Sir Henry

Pilots Say Nazis Show Little Fight

By The Associated Press

AN ADVANCED AIR BASE IN ITALY, Jan. 22—Returning pilots who flew a sunrise cover for allied landings on the west coast of Italy said today they had seen little or no artillery fire from the shore and that there were no fires on the beach.

Sweeping back and forth over the assault area in P-40 Warhawks at 8,000 feet, the pilots found no enemy aircraft during their first few patrols. They said weather was ideal for the operation.

They reported boats already beached along the coast and said some landing craft were already going back out to the ships for additional loads.

Maj. Bruce Biddlecome of Phoenix, Ariz., leader of one patrol, said, "I could see boats on the shore and some vehicles on the beach. There were fires or explosions inland—possibly from our naval guns."

Only One Nazi Field Left in Rome Area

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 22—A spokesman for the allied Mediterranean airforce announced this afternoon that an allied air campaign had knocked out all "airfields in the Rome area except one."

The bombings also blocked all railroads in the Leghorn area except one, while "rail blocks in the Rome area are for the most part effective," the spokesman added.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 22 — American, British and Greek navies carried out the "successful landing of British and American troops" on the west coast of Italy.

Warships taking part in the landing included French and Dutch, and all units joined in providing artillery support for the troops.

The naval forces were under the command of a U. S. admiral, Frank Jacob Lowry, while a British admiral, Thomas Hope Troubridge, was in charge of ships landing British troops.

Making a Christian Peace

A Sermonette
By REV. ELDRED JOHNSTON
Pastor of Central Christian Church

Text: "It could not be shaken for it was founded upon a rock." Luke 6:48.

IN PRESENTING to this city the series of Sunday evening discussions on "Building a Christian Post-War World," 10 churches are making a very important contribution to this community.

At a time when boys of all different faiths are fighting side by side and falling side by side, the various churches certainly can do no less than rise up and declare with one voice: "By the grace of God this shall not happen again!"

Some have argued that politics is not the church's business—or, as they put it, the church has no business in trying to write the peace. With this latter statement I agree, but that does not say that the church does not have the responsibility for bringing to bear every possible Christian influence on those who ARE responsible for writing the peace.

The Nazis are not in favor of closing churches—that is, as they say, so long as the churches stick to their own business. Rosenberg, one of the chief Nazis, writes this: "The churches have fundamentally but one task, that of making known to those men upon whom they have a claim the church's belief in the Beyond. The earth on which they live is no longer in the least the affair of the church." Mr. Rosenberg would probably not be delighted with the series of discussions which the churches mentioned above are carrying on.

The church believes that God in His love and wisdom has a perfect plan for mankind; a plan which if followed will inevitably lead to happiness, world brotherhood, and lasting peace. This divine plan is the ONLY rock upon which a lasting peace can be builded. It is the inescapable responsibility of the church, therefore, to discover this plan and to proclaim it to the world.

WHAT are some of these eternal principles which the church must not fail to proclaim to those who will write the peace?

(1) We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. No nation is guiltless. Any improvement of the world must begin with an act of penitence by every nation.

(2) No nation can be a law unto itself. God rules supremely over all peoples and all places. Every nation must bow to His eternal principle that what we sow, that shall we reap.

(3) Since Christ died for every man; since He is the Savior of every man, Christians cannot accept racial or national distinctions as the mark of the quality of a man's soul.

(4) A true Christian cannot hate any man or group of men. He can denounce evil; he can refuse to [illegible] but he cannot hate any one who bears the image of God.

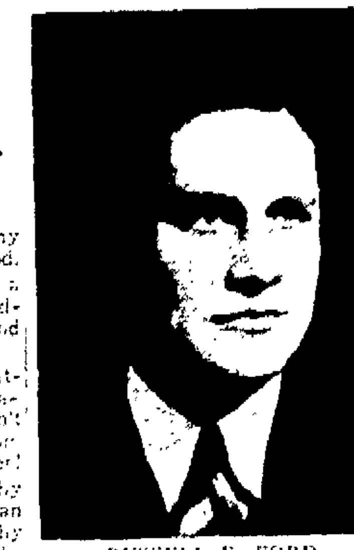

(5) There is only one way for a nation to become great—by spending itself in the service of God and mankind.

(6) No nation can live to itself alone. The fate of every nation is tied up with every other. Don't send someone to ask for whom doth the bell toll. It tolls for thee!

(7) We dare not pray "Thy Kingdom come" unless we can follow it with the prayer, "Thy will be done." In other words, those who are not willing for God's reign of love, justice and truth to descend upon this earth have no right to pray our Lord's prayer.

(8) There is a Power other than ourselves working for righteousness in the world. Past peacemakers have failed because they have proceeded on the assumption that the only way peace can be made to work is through the endeavors of men. Here then is the supreme message that the church must proclaim at such a time as this: "We are NOT alone! There is a Power other than ourselves working for righteousness in this world! We are NOT alone!"

COMING TO MARION

RUSSELL E. FORD

Russell E. Ford, above, choir director for the Cadle tabernacle services in Indianapolis, Ind., will be at First U. B. church Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to present "the story of Christ told with song and paintings." Using his own paintings of scenes of the life of Christ, Mr. Ford will trace the story from the birth of Christ to His ascension, singing hymns and original songs appropriate to each picture as he presents it. Songs he presents will include "Down From His Glory," "The Ninety and Nine" and "The Holy City."

Episcopal Bishop To Visit Marion Sunday

The Right Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, D. D., above, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in Ohio, will pay his annual visit to St. Paul's church here tomorrow to confirm a class of candidates. He will conduct a service of Holy Communion at 8 a. m., preach at 10:45 a. m., and conduct the confirmation service. Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's church, who has prepared the class for confirmation, will present the members of the group to the bishop for the rite.

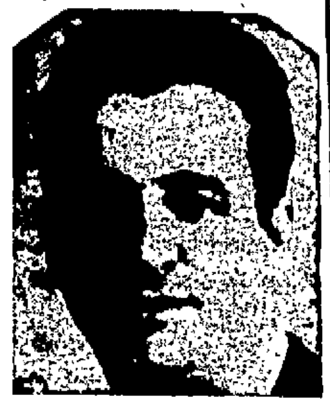

Epworth Youth Groups Plan Busy Sunday

Meetings of youth groups of Epworth Methodist church tomorrow include evening services of three Fellowship groups, Junior church and High School group worship service in the morning.

In the High school service during the Sunday school hour Paul Dasher will talk on "The History of Methodism" and Joan Smith will preside. For the Fellowship meeting at 6:30 p. m. in Our House the subject will be "The Church in the Country" with Eleanor Swain leading the discussion. Bob Schweinfurth will preside. The Junior church theme at 10:45 a. m. will be "I Would Be True in the New Year." The Intermediate Fellowship group will meet at 5:15 p. m. in Our House with Don Zeisler presiding.

At 8:30 p. m. the Young People's Fellowship will meet in Our House. John Bryans will preside and George Roest will lead a discussion. Next Saturday night the Intermediate Fellowship will hold a "backward lemon squeeze" party at Our House in charge of the recreation committee including Dave Brown, Joan Rosenberger, Jack Smith and Joan Williams.

Second in Series of Post-War World Talks Set Sunday

Dr. Gilbert Barnes, above, of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware will speak tomorrow night at 7:30 at Calvary Evangelical church on "The Shape of a Peaceful Economy." This is the second in a series of nine Sunday evening discussions being presented by a group of Marion churches on the general topic of "Building a Christian Post-War World." The first of the series was held last Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. Barnes is head of the department of economics at Ohio Wesleyan and has been with the college since 1920. Before coming to Ohio Wesleyan he taught one year at the University of Michigan and five years at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He is the author of three history texts, first of which is "The Anti-slavery Impulse."

Following Dr. Barnes' address there will be a period for open discussion. Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of the Calvary church, will preside.

American Reporter Nazi War Prisoner

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 22—Lowell Bennett, International News Service correspondent who failed to return from the RAF's Dec. 2 raid on Berlin, is safe and a prisoner of war in Germany.

Leo V. Dolan, manager of the news service's London bureau, received a letter from him yesterday dated "somewhere in Germany."

The correspondent's letter ended with a sentence that intrigued newspapermen here and made them wonder if Bennett was kidding or was attempting to get through a tip.

"Tell Turney I'm saving my expense accounts, and watch out for that 'secret weapon,'" he wrote.

His letter did not explain the circumstances of his capture.

OHIO IN LINE FOR OIL FROM COAL PLANT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—[illegible] is in line to become [illegible] a great new industry—[illegible] of oil from coal.

Even in war, the [illegible] gone beyond the [illegible] proponents are urging congressional approval of [illegible] authorizing exploratory [illegible] the bureau of mines.

The bill, already passed [illegible] senate, would authorize [illegible] tion of demonstration plants [illegible] certake actual production [illegible] and fuels from coal and other [illegible] stances, all plentiful [illegible] Buckeye state.

Rep. Earl Lewis (R-Ohio) [illegible] he had been assured Ohio [illegible] ing considered as a log[illegible] for one of the plants. He [illegible] letter from Director R. R. [illegible] of the bureau of mines [illegible] Ohio coals would be amp[illegible] tested as to adaptability [illegible] process of oil production.

Suggesting the south[illegible] Ohio coal area offered [illegible] facilities for a test plant, [illegible] said in an interview [illegible] press for prompt approval [illegible] bill by the house mining com[illegible] tee which will begin [illegible] soon.

Despite suggestions the [illegible] should be left for post-war [illegible] sideration, a report of the [illegible] public lands committee [illegible] mends passage to aid prose[illegible] of the war and to conserve [illegible] increase the oil resources of the country.

The committee said there [illegible] little basis for contention [illegible] legislation would put the [illegible] men, in competition with [illegible] industry.

The sole purpose, advocates [illegible] is for the government to [illegible] a program to be carried for [illegible] by private enterprise.

Interior Secretary Ickes [illegible] recommended passage of the [illegible]

HUFFMAN ENTERS DEMOCRATIC RACE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—James W. Huffman, 49-year-old Columbus attorney, became the fifth candidate to enter the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The son-in-law of former Gov. and U. S. Sen. Vic Donahey announced his candidacy yesterday. Other aspirants are former State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley of Cambridge; former internal revenue collector Frazier Reams of Toledo; former state senator Walter Baertschi of Toledo, and Attorney Frank A. Dye of Columbus.

When Donahey was governor Huffman served as his executive secretary for a time. He later was a member of the state public utilities commission.

He will seek nomination on a program calling for:

Reduction of present levies and no new taxation; expansion of conservation and recreation facilities; closer cooperation with the federal government in the war effort; inauguration of a post-war program to meet changing needs; special emphasis on rehabilitation and re-employment of returning soldiers; full assumption by the state of governmental responsibilities; simplification of utility rate-making procedure; assistance to the federal government in extension of rural electrification; adoption of a uniform highway system and support of principles laid down by both state and national Democratic platforms.

Huffman was born on a farm at Chandlersville, Muskingum county. He attended Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State universities, and the University of Chicago, obtaining his law degree at the latter school.

He has two children.

FRANCE

Paris Trains Secret Army for Invasion

By Joseph Dynan

ALGIERS—One afternoon last May in a well-known quarter in Paris a tall, middle aged man stepped gingerly from the Metro entrance, glanced quickly around and then approached the short squat man leaning against the subway balustrade reading the Paris Soir.

He asked the time; the short one folded his paper, looked at his watch. Then the two lit cigarets and the tall man ambled off.

This encounter was repeated many times, and within two hours, the arrivals had assembled in a certain building.

It was a full session of the French National Council of Resistance, leaders of the greatest and dealiest fifth column in history.

Each of them had been long condemned to death by Vichy and the Gestapo; had the Germans raided that house that afternoon they would have made their biggest haul yet. They would have gone a long way toward destroying the underground network which everywhere spies upon them, disrupts transport, cuts communication and tortures production.

Well Guarded

But the entire quarter was guarded by young men who two or three years before had been peaceful bank clerks or tradesmen but who now held submachine guns. Other precautions had been worked out in detail.

Three years of misfortune and false starts have imprinted precaution into the French underground movement. Today its leaders have behind them fully 200,000 well-trained and trusted guerrilla fighters.

They are the "soldats sans uniforme" who will crumble the enemy's transport, communication and supplies behind the beachhead.

Timing and rehearsing for this invasion day attack is the primary task of the National Resistance Council. Its secondary aim is day-to-day sabotage.

Sabotage is both active and passive. Actively, it ordains the slow downs in factories, the blowing up of bridges, the caving in of rail tunnels.

Youth Legion in Hills

Passive sabotage is carried out by aiding young Frenchmen to evade German labor draft for Nazi factories. Recent estimates say that more than 100,000 youths are now hiding in the hills.

Along this underground, justice is firm, swift and primitive. At 8:30 one night a Lavallist collaborationist stumbled into a partisan area. The townspeople formed a court. He was found guilty of treason. At 9:30 p. m. he was buried.

Officers spend all their time organizing and planning.

They have taken on completely new identities. They have false identity cards, false ration cards, false papers; they eat furtively in third class restaurants; they have no home, no friends, no family and frequently sleep in a different place every night.

The Communists have perhaps the best trained and most smoothly working organization, because theirs was driven underground long before the German breakthrough.

John Adair in Radio Play Role Tonight

John Adair of New York City, of the "John and Jane Stock Company," which played long engagements at the old Grand theater, now the Ohio, a number of years ago, will play the role of "Mr. Fitzgerald" in "Suds in Your Eye," to be broadcast over the Blue network tonight from 6 to 7 o'clock, Marion time. A note from Mr. Adair to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Danner of Girard avenue, close friends of "John and Jane," gave the time for the play. Mr. Adair now devotes a great deal of his time to radio and personal appearances. His last visit to Marion was in the early winter of 1940 when he made a personal appearance with the picture, "The Ramparts We Watched," at the Palace theater. Mrs. Adair accompanied him here. They have a large number of friends and acquaintances in Marion and vicinity.

States and the ... or on sea ... filing returns ... of tax until ... the fourth month ... in which ... on sea duty ... continental United ... beyond the 15th ... month following ... in the war ends. ... paid to ... armed forces for ... not subject to ... income taxes by ... wages. When ... credit may be taken for payments ... made on the 1942 income tax return, and for payments of estimated tax made during 1943, and the balance, if any, is payable in cash. If a serviceman has ... due for 1943 and believes that he is entitled to a refund for taxes previously paid for 1942 or 1943, he may file an income tax return for 1943 to establish a basis for determining the amount of the refund or credit to which he is entitled.

All military and naval personnel of the United States are entitled to exclude from gross income so much of their active service pay (base pay and additional compensation for longevity and foreign or special services) received in 1943 as does not exceed $1,500. Pay received after discharge or release from active service is, however, includible in gross income even though it relates to services rendered while in active service. Active service includes periods during which a person is absent from duty on account of sickness, wounds, leave, internment by the enemy, or other lawful cause, but it does not include retirement or periods in the inactive reserve.

If a member of the armed forces is not entitled to postpone filing his return or paying his tax, but finds that his ability to pay income taxes has been materially impaired because of his service, he may request the collector to grant a deferment of payment for a period extending not more than six months after the termination of his military or naval service. The application may be in the form of a letter, and may be filed with the return, or it may be submitted to the collector in reply to a notice and demand from that official for payment, or even in answer to the issuance of a warrant for distraint. It should show the beginning date of enlistment or service, the applicant's present financial condition, and whether or not his ability to pay the tax has been materially impaired by reason of military or naval service.

It is the duty of the collector to determine whether ability to pay has been materially impaired by military or naval service, and he is authorized to require such proof of impairment of income as he may deem advisable. This proof may be required in the form of a financial statement, or in the form of an affidavit.

If the deferment is granted, no interest will be charged on the deferred tax and no penalty is incurred for nonpayment of this amount during the period of deferment. The deferment of payment does not, however, postpone the time for filing an income tax return.

If a married serviceman is entitled to postpone filing his return, his civilian wife is entitled to the same postponement if her gross income for 1943 is less than $1,200. If, however, her gross income is $1,200 or over she must file a return by March 15, 1944 unless an extension is obtained. When his period of postponement expires, he may then also file a separate return, or they may at that time elect to file a joint return, which will replace the return she previously filed. In deciding whether to file a joint return, it should be remembered that where a husband and wife file a joint return for 1943, each is jointly and severally liable for the entire amount of tax shown in the return, and that it may be collected in full from either person.

In figuring the tax forgiveness in the return, special rules apply to members of the armed forces, as explained in a previous article in this series.

Active service members of the armed forces who were liable for the filing of a declaration of estimated tax on or before September 15, 1943, were granted an extension of time for such period as may be necessary but not beyond March 15, 1944. Where the filing of a declaration for 1943 is deferred beyond Dec. 31, 1943, under this extension, no declaration need be filed for that year if the taxpayer makes his income tax return and pays the tax in full on or before March 15, 1944.

WINDOW STREAKS

Streaks left when windows are washed may be eliminated if, when you wash the inside of the window you rub the cloth horizontally; on the outside rub vertically. If any streaks are left after the washing, it is then easy to tell whether they are inside or out.

Building Quiz

Q.: ... bathroom faucet ... noise when the hot water ... a certain speed. It sounds as if all the pipes were shaking loose. If the water runs fast it stops. What is wrong and what can I do about it?

A.: If the noise occurs only when the hot water faucet in the bathroom is turned on and not in the hot water faucet in the kitchen, I suspect the washer or some other part in the faucet may be loose. A new washer may stop the noise. If, however, the noise occurs when any hot water faucet in the house is turned on the water is too hot and flashes into steam when the pressure is relieved, causing a rumbling noise. The remedy for the latter condition is to avoid overheating the water. If not already done, have a pressure relief valve installed on the storage tanks to protect against damage by excessive pressures.

Q.: If I fasten, with moldings, lights of glass on the inside of my window, leaving one inch space between the outer and inner light, would the one inch space prevent ice forming on either light in cold weather?

A.: If the sheet of glass is placed against the wooden window bars so that it is set level, and there is no chance of air and heat leakage around the additional sheet of glass, ice or condensation will not form. Should you experience any difficulty in obtaining moldings, your local hardware dealer may be able to supply you with a tape made especially for the purpose. This tape is also on sale at the large department stores.

Q.: I am troubled by a leak in my roof. From all indications the leak is where the roof joins the dormer.

A.: The flashings have probably worn out. A good way to take care of the trouble is to fill the cracks with roofing cement. This will fill the bill until you are able to get new flashings.

Heat-Control System Ready for Post-War

By The United Press

MINNEAPOLIS—The Minneapolis-Honeywell ... became one of the first companies ... tell about its post war products with an announcement that it has perfected an automatic heat-control system which will ... the post-war period.

Charles B. Sweatt, Honeywell vice president, said the heating system is a low-cost adaptation of that used in schools and large office buildings to maintain constant room temperature.

"Basic principle of the system," he said, "is to provide an exact amount of heat in a continuous flow. This differs widely from the present method where heat is supplied intermittently, causing house temperatures to fluctuate over a wide temperature range."

He said the control system would be usable not only in the most modern of post-war homes, but also in pre-war models.

Ideas Rule the World

IT NEVER has been too early to wonder whether military victory over Germany, Japan and like-minded government will subdue the idea which motivated them. The Japanese claim their concept of Asia for Asiatics—i.e., Asia for Japanese exploitation of Asiatics—has been planted so firmly that they ultimately must win, regardless of what happens in the immediate future. Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, called attention of a meeting of educators in Cincinnati last week to the post-war problem of the young German fanatics reared under the Nationalist Socialist regime in Germany.

"No less dangerous than tanks or guns," warned Lord Halifax, "are those forces which, in the words of the old prayer, 'Assault and hurt the soul,' and not less necessary for the future is the exorcism of these forces from the world. It will not be enough simply to get rid of false teaching. Even assuming that we can gradually do something to cleanse the minds of these young Nazis, our work will be only half done if we leave behind a vacuum, that empty house into which other and worse devils may enter."

The British ambassador's warning is peculiarly appropriate for Americans, who are committed by social and political tradition to complete belief in the supreme power of education to stabilize a good society. Yet, for reasons which seem to spring from some kind of a national inferiority complex, Americans lately have been dangerously close to surrendering their own confidence in education. They have been expressing fear of what the Communists may teach, for instance, without admitting to themselves that in the realm of ideas there is nothing more potent than the idea of freedom as exemplified in the progress of America. Its impact has been felt for a century and a half throughout the world and today is still the unfulfilled hope of millions of dissatisfied human beings outside the United States. In the great project of appealing to men's intelligence and imagination, Americans are as well qualified for success as any of their competitors—better qualified than most. Our only serious lack is confidence in ourselves.

Only the Face Is Familiar

IN New York City the other day, Vice President Wallace, the same who once took responsibility for plowing under cotton and doing away with little pigs in the name of over-production, spoke earnestly to trade unionists about the imperative need for a post-war national income of upward of 200 billion dollars in order to carry the federal debt and keep the people busy. Production, he declared, and more production must be assured.

This is the rising theme of post-war planning—all-out production to keep America busy, to make it wealthy, to pay for its spendings. This, says Walter Lippmann, is the only escape from the dislocations of war. The right to earn money, according to Mr. Roosevelt's new economic "bill of rights," is inalienable. Only a national income of enormous size, it is proclaimed far and wide, can enable the United States to carry the debts it must carry to remain solvent.

All this can mean only the government's future encouragement of the business enterprise whose resourcefulness and capacity have come to the rescue of the nation in the war emergency. All this can mean only that any move hereafter to complicate the process of production with government intervention that fails to be constructive is inconsistent with the avowed purpose of government, itself. All this can mean only that everything preached by those who ascribed the country's troubles to over-production is now acknowledged to have been false; that the eternal hope of America is more, not less, production. A great conversion of theory, which may or may not be followed by a conversion in practice, is taking place.

Only the New Deal face is familiar. The words and music are different.

The Little Foxes

THERE comes occasionally to the cluttered desk of a commentator a single fact or thought, passed along by someone else, or perhaps salvaged from a pile of clippings, with the vague recommendation: "This should be worth something." It is like a piece of curiously grained wood, or perhaps a fragment of metal given to an artisan because it seems too good to overlook, yet has no obvious use.

Such an object is the terse announcement by United States secret service that money counterfeiters are disappearing, but in their stead has appeared an army of "scratch artists" who live by stealing government checks from mail boxes and cashing them with forged signatures. Army and navy allotments, social security benefits, bond redemptions, agricultural subsidies and salary checks are the favorite loot.

Comment? Surely there must be something to be learned, some phrase to point the lesson, something better than merely to murmur.. "the little foxes that spoil the vines."

Today and Tomorrow

Stimson's Argument on National Service Act Called Unanswerable.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ON Wednesday Secretary Stimson made a statement which, whatever congress does about national service, will have a high place in the great tradition of American public life.

For here in measured and compelling words is the argument that the republic can not oblige some of its people to serve the nation and exempt all the rest of its people from the obligation.

It was on the moral principle that there must be one standard of duty, not two different standards, for the soldier and the civilian, that Mr. Stimson rested his argument. He appealed to the American conscience on an elementary moral principle.

The mark of greatness in troubled times is to do just that—all other considerations and calculations to the basic issue of right and wrong. It is wrong for us who are civilians to owe no legal obligation to serve. It is right that our obligation should be equal in law—though it can never be equal in the reality of sacrifice—with that of the men who fight. To make this truth clear is leadership. To acknowledge this truth, when it has been made clear, is each man's plain duty. To reject this truth is to fail in one's duty. That is the argument for a national service act. All the rest of the argument is over details.

Can't Be Answered

There is no answer to Secretary Stimson's argument. When armies were raised by volunteering, no one had a legal obligation to serve his country. Now that our armies are raised by compulsory service, it is a crying injustice and wholly immoral that the support of those armies should depend not upon the obligation to support them but upon personal choice, private whims, and upon bargaining for money enforced by threats of a refusal to serve.

No one can defend the double standard of duty, and even if there were not the practical and urgent reasons why a national service legislation is more necessary than ever at this stage of the war, it would still be imperative that we cleanse ourselves by establishing one single universal standard of duty for all able-bodied adults.

There are, however, urgent and practical reasons, which Mr. Stimson alluded to but did not dwell upon, why at this stage of the war national service should be adopted. One of them is that when the German phase of the war ends, a tremendous reorientation will take place in order to conclude the Japanese phase.

If in this difficult and complex transition we do not have national service, it will be each civilian worker for himself and the devil take the hindmost. The workers who remain loyally at war jobs, and those who cannot leave them, will then suffer injustice in relation to those who get a favored place at the top of the list of peace-time jobs. Only a national service act can introduce justice and order into the partial and then into the general demobilization.

But in truth it ought to be a sufficient reason for Mr. Green, Mr. Murray, Senator Vandenberg, or any one else, that Secretary Stimson asks for this legislation in the name of the armies of the United States. Mr. Stimson thinks the legislation is necessary, and what he thinks is necessary to win the war at the least cost is a more important opinion than anyone else's opinion.

For to his care is committed the welfare of the American Army. It is he who has to set the machinery in motion calling these men out of their homes, to the training camps and the battlefields. It is he who must guard their interests while they are away and must bring them back again to their people. If he thinks that this army needs the support of a national service act, who has a better right to be believed?

Entitled to Authority

Let the people at home who have a man in this war ask themselves where, from whom, they can obtain wiser and more disinterested advice on what is good for their men than from the present secretary of war. What conceivable purpose could he have except to protect the army under his care?

He is no politician with a constituency, and he will never seek any other public office. He has served the nation with honor and distinction longer than any other man in public life, and there is nothing that he could seek, nothing that he could want, except the welfare and success of the army and the public good.

He stands above party, above ambition and above any possible criticism of his motives. And he speaks as hundreds and hundreds of thousands of Americans are poised for the greatest battles ever fought by American forces. He is entitled to our trust, and to be followed even by those who feel that they have a different opinion. For on this subject and at this time he speaks with authority.

Sister Kenny in Movies

By Robbin Coons

Associated Press Hollywood Reporter.

HOLLYWOOD — It will cost a lot of money to make "Elizabeth Kenny" but it was only a matter of nickels that made its filming possible. Nickels — $5 worth—in the hands of a determined movie writer named Mary McCarthy.

Miss McCarthy had read an article about Sister Kenny and her work with infantile paralysis, and it put her on a trail that led her to a telephone booth in a Minneapolis hotel one cold, grey October day in 1942.

Sister Kenny

"I read that story," she says, "and I knew there was THE picture. So I sent a wire to Sister Kenny asking if I could come to Minneapolis and talk to her about filming her life."

Sister Kenny's reply wasted no precious telegraph time. "Stay where you are," she wired.

Couldn't Be Stopped

But Miss McCarthy is Irish. "You can't stop an Irish dame when she sets her mind to anything," she relates. "I went to Minneapolis. I changed a $5 bill into nickels and started calling Sister."

She had no luck at first." Sister will not talk to you," said the Kenny secretary firmly and hung up.

Another nickel went into the slot. She says go back to Hollywood said the secretary. But more nickels followed, and the nineteenth did the trick. Sister Kenny weakened. And two hours later Mary McCarthy had Sister Kenny's permission to draft a screenplay of her life. How?

"I told her four Irish jokes and she, being Irish as well as Scotch, liked them. Then I brought up the picture. She said no. I said, 'Sister, there'll be shots of the Kenny treatment in the film. Some woman in some out-of-the way place will see it, some woman with kids, and if those kids get the disease, she'll rush them to the nearest Kenny clinic.' She said, 'You win.'"

Miss Russell Helps

So Mary McCarthy came back to Hollywood and began peddling her idea. To her it has been more than a movie—it's a crusade. "If I never write another story," she says, "I won't mind. This one gives my life some meaning."

First person she approached was Rosalind Russell, Sister Kenny's choice. Roz wasn't hard to sell, and the star joined forces with the writer to sell the idea to a studio. They were turned down plenty, but finally RKO fell for it. The picture will be made.

It has taken Miss McCarthy nine months to write the script—and Sister Kenny, although she balked at first at the love story, finally approved it.

Leaf Picker Upper

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, Miss. — This cotton-made little Delta city of story book cottages and tree lined streets has solved a problem that vexes every community when leaves fall in the fall.

It's got a brand new, home-made leaf picker upper.

Mayor Milton C. Smith, former woodworking plants operator, figured that leaves could be handled with a "blower" like those used in moving sawdust or cotton, and designed the leaf picker upper.

From odd parts and at a cost of $50 a "blower" was constructed, attached to the transmission of a tractor at one end and a leaf container installed on an old automobile trailer at the other.

When the contraption is set in motion, leaves are picked up, gulped through a suction fan and into the trailer.

Mayor Smith has suggested that the leaves be converted into leaf mold for victory gardens and flower beds.

MORE "DIVISIONS" TO HELP HITLER

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Jan. 22, 1934.

A railway section worker's car was derailed when a small dog ran in front of it on the C. & O. tracks south of Marion, causing injuries that proved fatal to Otis Baker of Silver street. Arnold Edier of Fies avenue was injured.

Marion Boy Scouts reported that in a tree census the preceding Saturday they had counted 11,970 trees in Marion growing between the sidewalks and curbings.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Peoples, 80, died at her home on East Center street.

Mrs. Philomena Krack, 83, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown on East Center street.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson of North Greenwood street.

Calvin Oswald, 61, died suddenly at his home in Prospect.

The Marion county commissioners appropriated $368,100 for county government requirements in 1931, an increase of $18,415 over the preceding year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Halby and son Billy of Forest street returned from a three-week vacation in Wisconsin and Chicago.

Mrs. Emma Wagner, 52, formerly of Marion, died at her home in Sandusky.

Top hogs brought $3.70 at the weekly auction of the Marion Livestock Sales Co. Other top prices were $4.95 for cattle, $9 for calves, $8.90 for lambs.

Substitute

Detroit's air raid warden organization, left without any definite program by war developments which minimized the danger of bombing, has tackled the task of giving the city's boys and girls something to do to keep them interested.

This constructive step toward solving the juvenile delinquency problem, according to American Municipal association, has brought excellent results, though it is being handled as a substitute job. The air raid wardens were asked for help by the municipal defense council. They do not supplant other organizations carrying out youth programs, but merely furnish assistance when it is requested.

Sector groups have organized dances and dance instruction, music lessons, classes in art, photography, sewing, woodworking, have organized hikes, archery and rifle clubs, home parties and supervised skating rinks. Most of the sectors have planned softball teams for next summer and at present are making a survey of vacant property which could be converted into playgrounds.

The wardens were appealed to last November by the Detroit defense council because of acute need for supervised youth programs and because they had done a good job in organizing 8,000 messengers under the OCD messenger service program.

Compulsory Service in Britain

Act Passed in 1940 To Meet National Emergency.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt's reference to the experience of Great Britain and the Dominions in the passage of his message to congress dealing with national service proved more puzzling than enlightening.

The President referred to the fact that in these countries the "very existence of national service makes unnecessary the widespread use of compulsory power," which amounted, in effect, to asking congress for government authority that would not be used because it would be more useful if not used.

Compulsory service authority in Great Britain comes from an act of parliament in May, 1940, when Britain's defeat was being threatened hourly by the collapse of France. It required all British subjects to "place themselves, their services, and their property" at the government's disposal. It was an emergency measure adopted in the hour of Britain's "greatest peril" to save the nation.

The authority thus bestowed has been used widely, but not to the fullest extent, which may explain what the President meant in his reference to the existence of the authority making its exercise unnecessary.

When women were drafted under the emergency authority into the armed services, only the younger ones were summoned, and today the age limits are between 19 and 30, though all women between 18 and 50 must register. British women are not required "to serve with the guns," unless they volunteer. Women of draft age if married and caring for children under 14 are exempt.

Men and women alike are interviewed after registration. Following this step, they may be directed to a certain job. Experience has been, however, that the directing usually obviates any real need for conscription. When a man or woman thus takes a job "voluntarily," the burden of proof is upon the government to show that the job is not the one which will contribute most to the war effort.

As a rule, women are not required to leave their own communities. The British ministry of labor has estimated that 10 out of 11 million women registered are now in either full or part-time war work.

ALL work is classified according to its essentiality. Workers may be compelled to leave an unessential job for an essential one and are forbidden to leave any job without permission. Hiring by employers is strictly regulated, and new employment is through a pool, under supervision. These devices already exist in the United States under the rules of the war manpower commission.

The bottom draft age in Great Britain is now 18, with boys not sent abroad, except in certain services, or at their own request, until they are 19. Actual registration for military service takes place at 17 years and eight months. Boys and girls of 16 and 17 are registered and "directed" to useful work. Recently the government conscripted men and boys for work in coal mines.

Many men and women disqualified for full-time employment are "directed" into part-time employment. Unlike the United States, where civilian defense now has been virtually demobilized, many British citizens disqualified for industrial employment can fulfill their war obligation by their home defense activities.

While President Roosevelt made it plain that he thought of compulsory service legislation as a means of dealing with strikes, British experience has not been reassuring on this score. Great Britain has separate legislation in effect outlawing strikes, just as the United States has in the Smith-Connally act, but strikes have occurred. With the Labor party a part of the government, the strikes are unauthorized.

Compulsory service authority in Canada is not so broad as that in Great Britain, though gold miners recently were transferred into nickel mines. Canada has outlawed strikes, but strikes continue to happen.

Majority in U. S. Think War in Europe Will End This Year

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 22— As of today a majority of the American people agree with General Dwight Eisenhower's prediction, "We will win the European war in 1944."

The average of all guesses in an Institute poll just completed would put the end of European hostilities in October of this year —only a few weeks before the presidential election.

Public thinking continues along more sober lines so far as the Japanese conflict goes. Only six out of every one hundred U. S. voters think the war with the Japanese will be over before we enter 1945. The average of all guesses would end the Pacific war in two years.

As in past polls on the question, field reporters for the Institute put the problem to a representative segment of the total voting population as follows:

"How much longer do you think the war with Germany will last?"

The same question was asked with reference to Japan, but with sharply contrasting results, as the tables below indicate:

PUBLIC'S GUESSES

Length of War with Germany

Will end first half of 1944	12%
Second half of 1944	46
In 1945	31
In 1946	5
In 1947 or later	1
Undecided	5

Length of With with Japan

Will end first half of 1944	1%
Second half of 1944	5
In 1945	33
In 1946	33
In 1947 or later	20
Undecided	8

Other interesting facts brought to light in the present poll:

1. Women are more pessimistic about when the war in Europe will end. Sixty-two per cent of the men think the war with Germany will end in 1944; only 52 per cent of the women hold a like opinion.

2. Approximately one year ago, in February, 1943, the average guess was that the war with Germany would be over by now. In the summer of 1943 the guess was that the European phase would end in July of this year. Now the average guess is October, or nine months from now.

Pay Boosts for Employes Listed in County's '44 Appropriations

[illegible] Other Expense Items Holds Total to Only Slightly Over 1943: County Debt to State Paid Off.

[illegible] increases of approximately five per cent for all county [illegible] provided for in appropriations which the county com[illegible] just set up to operate various departments of the [illegible] in 1944.

[illegible] 60 and 70 persons will share in the increases, but in [illegible] funds needed to meet the pay boosts, the county [illegible] a healthier financial condition than a year ago.

[illegible] is that the total appropriations for operating purposes, [illegible] to $274,477.28, include a $22,619 "cushion" for un[illegible] emergencies. Even [illegible] the total appro[illegible] are not much larger [illegible] 1943 total of $273,549, [illegible] 1943 the "cushion" fund [illegible] $5,608.

Debt To State Liquidated

Argentine Consul Seized by British As Enemy Agent

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Jan 22—The British have seized an Argentine consul as an "enemy agent," the Argentine foreign office has announced, and an investigation is underway to determine whether a spy ring is operating within Argentina.

Several persons already have been detained in connection with the probe, last night's announcement said. The investigation was launched by the Argentine government after Osmar Alberto Hellmuth, recently named as auxiliary consul at Barcelona, Spain, was taken by British officials from a vessel at Trinidad while enroute to his post.

Trinidad is a British possession off the Venezuela coast.

"The British foreign office informed this chancellory (foreign office) that detention was the result of information that proved Hellmuth was an enemy agent," the communique declared, and Hellmuth "has been relieved of his functions because his conduct appears to have been compromising."

"Asserting that "as information supplied by the British foreign offices may imply the existence of an espionage organization in our country, of which Hellmuth was said to be a member," the announcement said "the government has ordered an ample investigation and has given all information to the federal police."

(An Associated Press dispatch from Montevideo, Uruguay, said yesterday the newspaper La Razon had published a purported photograph of a letter signed by Ruppert Weilhermer, secretary of the political bureau of the German embassy at Buenos Aires, instructing all Nazi agents in South America to do their utmost this year to break up the Pan-American bloc.

(La Razon declared the letter definitely proved a connection between Genman agents and the Argentine revolution of last June as well as a link with the Bolivian coup last month.)

INVASION

Maitland Wilson announced Monday, has one primary objective—to take Rome.

The attack was planned by Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who commands the central Mediterranean forces. Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark commands the Fifth army under him.

The regular communique, issued after the special announcement, said French troops converging on Cassino had seized an important height, while American troops crossed the Rapido river.

Advance British troops have seized Tremensuoli, about a mile north of captured Minturno, beating off counterattacks at many points.

So thorough has been the airforces' sealing off of the Rome area from the north, German troops have been left with "what they stand up in"—their immediate resources on the spot—airforce officials said.

Twenty Nazi planes were shot down in yesterday's intensive air preparation for the offensive. Five allied planes were lost. Shipping off the Yugoslav coast was attacked and a merchant vessel was sunk in the Gulf of Genoa.

The assault broke the deadlock of the past two months on the Italian front and following a day of the heaviest air attacks since the Salerno landings in September.

The new landings came as the Germans were rushing completion of a powerful new "Adolph Hitler" defense line 65 miles below Rome, according to prisoners' reports, indicating the enemy had held scant hope of holding his present Gustav line much longer.

Maj. Gen. John K. Cannon has been appointed commanding general of the U. S. 12th airforce, composed of American and British units operating in close support of the Fifth and Eighth armies, it was announced last night.

Gen. Cannon has been in North Africa since 1942, when he was in charge of the western task air force in Morocco. He later became commanding general of the 12th bomber command under Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

areas. Sub-standard wages will not be affected. However, ceilings below the $2,400 level may be set if boards consider it necessary.

WFA officials said the farm wage regulations would subject violators to severe penalties. Under provisions of the stabilization act, maximum penalty is a fine of $1,000, and imprisonment for a year. Both employers and employes would be liable.

The regulations also prohibit reductions in wage rates below the highest wage or salary paid for the particular work between Jan. 1, 1942, and Sept. 15, 1942.

DEATH OF WOMAN IS RULED SUICIDE

By The Associated Press

McARTHUR, O., Jan. 22—The death of Mrs. Martna Victorson, 34, killed by a shotgun charge at the home of well-to-do friends, today was listed as suicide.

Coroner Joe Strong returned a formal suicide verdict last night after a two-day investigation into the death of the attractive blond wife of Earl Victorson, owner of the Athens Lime & Coal Co. Her body was found in the library of Mr. and Mrs Herbert Hamilton by the Hamilton's 16-year-old son, Raymond, Wednesday night.

Sheriff Earl Stuck said Mrs Victorson apparently entered the Hamilton home while the family was away, adding it was not unusual for Mrs. Victorson to go into the Hamilton house and "make herself at home."

The woman's body was found in a chair, her hand on the barrel of a 16-gauge shotgun which still pointed to her head. When the boy discovered the body, the sheriff said, Hamilton was working at a steel plant in Dayton, and his wife was visiting with friends.

Mrs. Victorson was last seen alive by her husband about 8:30 p. m., Wednesday, the sheriff said. He quoted her husband as saying he knew of no reason why she should want to take her own life. Stuck said death occurred some time "between 8 30 p m and 11 p. m.

Cardington Man Hurt in Accident

William Stawder of Cardington suffered a cut on his head when he was thrown from the running board of an automobile driven by Pvt. Dwight Fox of Cardington in a collision with a Marion Reserve Power Co. car driven by H. H. Russell of Cardington at the intersection of Routes 42 and 529 yesterday afternoon.

Fox was driving east when the car being driven north by Russell collided with the Fox car, throwing Stawder across the highway into the ditch. He was taken to the office of Dr. Murphy in Cardington for treatment and released to his home. Extensive damage resulted to both cars. State highway patrolmen, who investigated the accident, said a traffic light at the intersection changed as both cars approached and neither driver was able to stop. No charges were filed against the operators of the cars.

SEEK NEW CLUES IN CHICAGO SLAYING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan 22—Frustrated in a dozen or more lines of investigation after two days of relentless inquiry, police today sought clues to the murder of Mrs Frank Starr Williams in the two safety boxes the diplomat's wife rented shortly before she was killed.

State's attorney's officials disclosed the 55-year-old socially prominant Chicago and Washington woman had rented the boxes at the Drake hotel a few hours before she was slain by a mysterious middle-aged woman in her hotel apartment.

Police said they were puzzled by this move, in view of the fact Mrs. Williams had registered at the hotel on Jan. 6 and had waited until Jan. 19 before leasing the boxes.

Members of the victim's family told police she often wore valuable jewels and was wearing an expensive diamond ring when she was fatally shot Wednesday night.

Officers said no valuables had been stolen from the apartment nor had the slayer taken any jewels from Mrs Williams, having fled immediately after shooting Mrs Williams in the head.

Police and Coroner A. L. Brodie, who yesterday continued an inquest until Feb. 8, will open the safety boxes today.

MRS. STEWART FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Sadie L. Stewart of Brush Ridge will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. in the Brush Ridge Baptist church. Burial will be in Grand Prairie cemetery. The body will be taken Monday at 1 p. m. from the Lucas funeral home at Morral to the church at Brush Ridge where friends may call until service time. It was stated incorrectly in last night's Star that the body would be removed from the funeral home at 1 p. m. Sunday.

FUNERAL AT MORRAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Granlee of Morral will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Morral Methodist church by Rev. Fred Rice. Burial will be in Grand Prairie cemetery. Friends may call at the home of a son, Jess Granlee, at Morral until 1 p. m. Sunday, when the body will be taken to the church for services. Mrs. Granlee died in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Disher, near Nevada Friday.

Miss Browne praised the men of the thirty-seventh division in the Buna campaign, saying about 20 per cent of the boys had malaria. They wouldn't go to doctors to be fixed up.

"They are eager for soft drinks, milk, fresh fruit juices, hot water, beds, sheets and all the little things we take for granted," the former tennis and golf champion said.

Time, she recalled, means nothing in the Pacific. "It's a seven-day war out there. We go on the longest bombing missions in the world, knock out 200 Japs, gain 500 yards. It's like a football game, just plug, plug, plug.

JAPS' FAR NORTH NAVY BASE BOMBED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — Two bombing raids on Paramushiro, major Japanese naval base in the north Pacific were announced by the Navy today.

Planes flew out from the Aleutians over approximately 720 miles of the north Pacific ocean to batter the base at the northern end of the Kurile chain.

Enemy installations on the southern coast of the island of Paramushiro were battered by the first of two groups of bombers to carry out the assaults on Friday night. In the second raid three hours later the northern part of the enemy's naval stronghold was attacked.

Anti-aircraft fire was encountered only in the first raid, made at about midnight. One enemy fighter plane, the Navy reported, also endeavored ineffectively to drive off the first group of bombers but all our planes returned to base without damage.

The two raids bring to seven times the number of attacks launched on the Paramushiro base.

Supply Bases Hit

At Hansa bay, north of Madang, bombers attacked supply and gun locations and sank 20 barges, while P-T boats wiped out 160 enemy troops in destroying barges carrying them to Madang.

In the Marshalls American Army and Navy bombers again raided Wotje and two islands of Jaluit atoll and damaged a Japanese cargo-transport vessel near Maloelap. Two raiders failed to return.

Only Japanese interception reported today came in an attack on the enemy seaplane base on Amboina island in the Dutch East Indies, 600 miles north of Australia. Two Liberators were shot down, but at least five Japanese planes were destroyed.

Free Korea Conference Opens at Ashland Today

By The Associated Press

ASHLAND, O., Jan. 22—Sponsors of a free Korea met here today to urge recognition of a provisional government-in-exile and thus strengthen the allies in their struggle with Japan.

Terming the midwest community a stronghold of pro-Korean sentiment, the Korean-American council announced it had chosen Ashland for a two-day conference because local civic organizations had made substantial contributions to promote that nation's cause.

The council supports a provisional government at Chungking and advocates U. S. recognition to encourage Korean resistance against the Japanese, who seized the tiny state in 1910.

Slaughter, Is Word for Titanic Battle on Russian Front

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When you stop to consider the titanic struggle along the Russian [illegible] feature [illegible] most [illegible] after[illegible] note that the Red avalanche [illegible] westward sweep.

Slaughter.

That certainly is one of the most impressive, and most significant, aspects of this crucial phase of the war in eastern Europe. The Muscovites are advancing over the bodies of dead Germans.

Comparatively few prisoners are being taken by the Red forces, and the rapidly retreating Hitlerite are in no position to capture many Muscovites. Thus the casualties which the Nazis are inflicting on the Russians—and they presumably are considerable, although we lack figures—likewise are mainly in killed and wounded.

Germans Lose Heavily

In the first six days of the great new Russian offensive on the Leningrad-Novgorod front, Moscow reported that 40,000 Germans had been slain. General Leonid Govorov's troops in the Leningrad area accounted for 25,000 of the dead, and the other 15,000 were killed before the ancient stronghold of Novgorod to the south. The Moscow radio summed up the situation with grim satisfaction like this:

"German forces are bleeding profusely. They are panic-stricken under the threatening tentacle of a mighty Soviet army of retribution."

"Retribution"—that burns in the mind of the Red soldier. He is exacting punishment for crimes against his own people.

To be sure, a quarter million German troops near Leningrad are threatened with being trapped. That likely will mean prisoners if the trap closes, but the way things are going it also will mean a mountain of dead.

On Nov. 6 last, Marshal Stalin announced that the Nazis had suffered 4,000,000 casualties on the Russian front during the previous year. Of this huge total, 1,800,000 were killed. There were 117,200 buried at Stalingrad. Moscow reported that 100,000 Hitlerites were killed on the Ukraine front alone in the first three weeks of 1944.

Losses to Continue

So it has gone, and so it's likely to continue to the bloody end. While the desire to exact retribution accounts for much of the bitterness of the fighting in Russia, that isn't the full explanation. The great military experts are agreed that annihilation of the enemy is the one sure way to victory—and they mean killing or capture. The mere forcing of the foe to abandon territory doesn't win wars.

The Prussian war lords always have been leading exponents of annihilation. Now they are being served with a big dish of their own strong meat. The Russians have consistently pursued annihilation tactics in their offensives. Almost invariably their attacks have been turning movements, designed to trap men. The many curving Red thrusts now cutting through the thousand miles or so of German battle line, look like so many sickles—part of the emblem of the Soviet Union.

No wonder the Germans are short of reserves. Their lack of men is one of the prime causes of their growing weakness.

So far as concerns the Leningrad-Novgorod battle, catastrophe is casting its black shadow over the Hitlerite ranks. It will take all the undoubted skill of their command to extricate them from their perilous position. And even if they escape the trap, it means a disastrous defeat.

An early result would be the collapse of Finland. Continued Red success also would force the evacuation of the Baltic states, thereby further endangering the whole Nazi front in Russia.

WALKER QUITS TODAY AS DEMOCRATIC CHIEF

Opens Way for Election of Robert E. Hannegan.

(Hannegan Picture on Page 3)

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Postmaster General Frank C. Walker offered his resignation today as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Clearing the way for the expected election of Robert E. Hannegan, 40-year-old commissioner of internal revenue, as his successor, Walker told national committeemen they must see to it that the country elects a president and congress "who will fearlessly lead America to victory in war and to victory in peace."

The resignation of Walker came at the outset of a committee session called to fix the time and place for the party's 1944 nominating convention. Chicago is expected to be chosen and the most favored date is July 24.

Without reference to a possible fourth term for President Roosevelt, Walker told the committee it was with genuine regret that he offered his resignation as chairman. He said the war had brought fresh problems and a constantly growing volume of business to the post office department, which he said required his full attention.

Walker asserted the most important issue in this year's election is the selection of a president and congress who will lead in winning the war and bringing about a peace "which would be approved by God and which would answer the aspirations of the human heart."

He voiced confidence the Democratic party "is closer than any other political group to the aspirations of the American people."

A fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt loomed so certain in the minds of many members of the committee they began planning for what may be the only major battle at the projected July convention in Chicago—the choice of a vice president.

Most party organization members, meeting formally today to hear Chairman Frank Walker offer his resignation and elect Robert E. Hannegan, 40-year-old St. Louisan in his place, gave only perfunctory attention to routine business of the day. Their minds admittedly were on the tough battle ahead with the Republicans.

Almost to a man they were agreed President Roosevelt must run again if they are to stem the resurgent G. O. P. tide. Even midwest Democratic conference members, widely touted as possible "insurgents," recognized this with a resolution indorsing the fourth term.

James C. Quigley, Nebraska committeeman, presented this resolution later at the White House to the President. Quigley said he received only a non-committal "oh."

There was one piece missing in the almost complete picture puzzle—identity of the vice presidential candidate.

Two potential candidates, Vice President Henry A. Wallace, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) of the house, were on the program for tonight's $100-a-plate Jackson day dinner which will wind up the committee's meeting.

Although there have been reports Wallace might be dropped from the ticket as a political liability, the vice president showed unexpected strength among delegates.

HUNDREDS

Fire trucks and ambulances rushing through the darkened streets with their sirens screaming and bells ringing added to the racket.

People crowded into shelters by the thousands, but Doughboys could be seen clustered in little groups in west end doorways absorbed by the excitement of their first air attack and many veterans of the blitz remained in their homes watching the show from windows.

[illegible]tial contributions to promote that doners found they could go back to sleep. And today in buses and subways they talked of "the noise."

Although it was a show for most observers, the raids caused considerable property damage, a number of casualties and grim aerial battles.

The last raid of comparable size on London and its environs was Oct. 7, 1943, when 60 Nazi planes dropped 30 long tons of bombs.

GAS CUT PROBABLE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 22—A cut in "A" gasoline rations in this area may be expected "unless consumption is drastically reduced," Birkett L. Williams, regional office of price administration director, asserted in ordering boards to cut supplemental rations wherever possible. He said the area was consuming 9,000 barrels of gasoline daily above its quota.

Harding Ties for N. C. O. Cage Lead With 56 to 47 Victory Over Ashland

Presidents Trip Loop Leaders in Rough Game Here.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Basketball teams are funny organizations—they're hard as the most puzzling algebra problem to figure out.

Two incomparable examples are Marion Harding's prodigal Presidents and Ashland's Hilltoppers.

Before 8 o'clock last night, starting time of the momentous clash of the confident Ashlanders and the Jack-the-Giant-Killing Prexies on the Thomas Edison court, most North Central Ohio conferenceites wouldn't give a plugged nickel for Harding's chances against the Hilltopper visitor. But after 32 minutes (in reality nearly two hours) of "foul" rousing basketball, the poor, insignificant Presidents had won themselves a ball game—56 to 47—a victory that will be cherished as long as Marion High school can support a cage outfit.

Not only did the Hardingmen pull the upset of the year in the N. C. O. but also fought their uphill way into a first place tie with their Hilltopper-victims. Both teams have lapped up four victories and choked on defeat once. The Bucyrus Redmen fell into third position by losing a 43 to 40 game to the lowly Mt. Vernon Jackets last night.

These two league games, combined with the Galion-Shelby engagements, close the first half of the history-making 1943-44 N. C. O. storybook. The half-dozen schools start their second tour of the circuit next Friday night.

Getting back to the Harding-Ashland game, which probably occasioned as much eye-rubbing as has ever been done in local basketball circles, the Presidents played their best game of the season—and nobody would be making an uniformed observation if they said it. But the Harding team that played Ashland wasn't actually the same club that previously had struggled through seven contests, winning four and droping three.

Head Coach Dewey N. Bohyer, always due for at least one masterful stroke of basketball magic during the course of an N. C. O. campaign, really was Houdinin outdone last night. He knew he had to cook up something mighty drastic to down Ashland and so tried another one of his famed lineup-juggling acts.

Shifts 'Em Around

He moved three boys up from the rank of Vice President to full Chief Executive for last night's game and even started one of these Junior Varsity cagers—Don Shirk, sophomore forward who last year was burning up the basket rims in the city junior high school league with Edison. Starting out with a mild case of jitters, only natural for a lad in such a position of responsibility, Shirk gradually calmed down with the aid of experienced varsity teammates and chalked up 12 points on five baskets and two free throws before he went out of the game on four fouls in the third quarter. But Shirk wasn't the only youthful sophie to get his crack at the big boys last night. Laurie Feaver and Bob Holliday had their chance, too and performed with the composure and dexterity of veterans, Feaver getting two points and Holliday, one.

But the unexpected appearance of Shirk Co. from the JayVees wasn't the only high spot of the game. Some sort of a record for local scholastic games must have been set by Officials Jay Winters and Shea, who saw 58 personal foul commissions and called that many, much to the whole-hearted disapproval of the spectators, both partisan and non-partisan. Harding bore the brunt of these penalties, being credited with 33 and Ashland 25.

Eight Go Out

Eight players were ejected from the game on fouls. Five of these were Harding men—Bob Virden, a substitute forward, and starters Shirk, Chuck Fazio, Stew Young and Elvin Beach. For Ashland, regulars Jack Schaffer and Ted Jacobs and Sub Jack Zimmerman got the heave-ho.

Virden saw the shortest service for Harding before he got his orders to retire for the evening. He didn't play more than five minutes in the third quarter and in that time was credited with a basket for two points. The third quarter was especially cluttered with foul commissions with five players bowing out on personals in the course of two and a half minutes.

Harding played most of the last half with second string replacements. The height edge was all Ashland's from the middle of the third period on after Center Fazio of Harding made his exit. Rex Kilbourn was perhaps the tallest Prexy in the game with his approximate six feet. The Hilltoppers, on the other hand, had Center Russ Geisinger, who towers about six feet three.

Of secondargy importance to the team victory but still something that the Harding players won't easily forget was last night's poor showing of Ted Jacobs, the highly recommended Ashland forward, who was held to 11 points by zealous, cautious Prexy guarding, especially on the part of Elvin Beach. Jacobs, before last night had never been below the 20-point mark in N.C.O. scoring and had accummulated a record-breaking 98 markers for four games. The Presidents checked him well as be could only garner three baskets and five free throws. Guard Jack "Ruffy" Harris, however, played his usual bang-up game as he dropped in 18 points to run his season total for five loop tilts to 93 points, only 16 behind Jacobs. Harris was always plaguing the Prexy basket with all types of shots, but generally fancy one-handers.

Guy Scores 16 Points

Only two points behind Harris in scoring was Harding's Fritz Guy, who reached a hotter temperature on the basketball thermometer than ever before in his two-season varsity scholastic career. He made 16 points, consisting of five goals and six free throws. He was the only first stringer who could manage to keep from getting his "fatal fourth" but wound up precariously close to that figure with three commissions.

Not far behind Guy as a point producer for Harding was Stew Young who in the mere quarter and a half that he played, tallied 12 points on six baskets. He attempted only eight action shots, which gives him a crack average of .750. Two of these baskets were remarkable long tries from mid-court.

The Harding team as a whole was more accurate than the invaders with a 31.2 per cent average. The Prexies tried 64 baskets and clicked on 20. Ashland shot 52 times but could only count for 13 buckets.

The game got under way with Harris bagging a one-hander for Ashland and following up with a similar shot to run the count to 4 to 0, the Hilltoppers' way. Marion got into the game as Guy tallied a free throw. Young stole the ball away from the napping Ashlanders and scored a sucker shot for Harding. Harris again tallied for Ashlnd on a one-hander from the foul circle. Harris was good for a free throw and thus marked up all of the first seven Ashland points. Jacobs then dropped in a pair of charity tosses for Ashland after a foul was called against Elvin Beach. Guy ran in a sucker shot and free throw for Harding to run the score to 9 to 6 in favor of the visitors. Young raked in a long shot for Harding and Guard Reece lobbed in a free toss for Ashland. Guy tallied a for-nothing offering for the hosts. Harris pushed in a one-hander from the side. The Prexies came within a point of the invaders as Guy made a clean steal of the ball to rack up a sucker shot. Geisinger made the first of five free throws. Young knotted the game at 13-all on his second long bucket as the quarter ended.

Second Period

Second period action started with Schaffer potting a one-hand push shot from the side for Ashland. Shirk had his first varsity competition basket on a semi-long, which tied the game at 15 to 15. The Presidents went ahead for the first time as Young tipped in a two-pointer. Two free throws wer emade by Shirk after a foul was called against Reece of Ashland. Guy made it 21 to 15, Harding, on a sucker shot. The Prexies went to the quarter century mark as Shirk potted a sucker shot. Jacobs dropped in a free throw for the Hilltoppers. Sub Zimmerman hooked through a gratis flip for Ashland, and Young followed with a one-hand pivot shot for Harding. Harris made a free throw and Guy had for himself a like point as Harding increased its lead to 30 to 18. Jacobs tallied his first basket of the evening on a chest shot from the side. A dandy semi-long was made by Shirk and Zimmerman made the rim hum on a one-hander from the foul circle. Jacobs ran the Ashland count to 23 on a free throw. Fazio racked up his only points of the night on two free throws. Jacobs had a pair of foul-line tries for Ashland as the half closed with Harding ahead, 34 to 26.

The third quarter opening found Shirk making a one-hand push shot for Harding and Kilbourn zipping through a free throw. Harris made a free toss and Jacobs a sucker shot for Ashland. Zimmerman looped in a free toss as Ashland's reading rose to 30. Geisinger and Reece made free throws and Reece a sucker-basket for Ashland. Guy dropped through a free flip for Harding. Bob Virden tallied a for-nothing flipper and Miller did the same for Ashland. Laurie Feaver pushed through a one-hander for Harding. Guy ran in a free throw. Guy made two free throws and a basket and Tom Hoffman a charity toss for Ashland. For Harding, Kilbourn and Holliday tallied free tosses and for Ashland, Tharp, a foul shot. The third quarter ended with Harding in front, 44 to 42.

The last period began with two Kilbourn free throws for the Presidents. Geisinger flipped in two of the same. Guy topped in a shot from the side and followed up with a sucker beauty, which gave Harding 50 to Ashland's 44. Harding got 52 on Kilbourn's tip-in and 54 on Marshall Zuck's one-hander. Harris made a free throw to give Ashland 45. Harding called it quits at 56 on a one-hander by Russ Midlam while Harris notched a basket for Ashland.

Yellow Jackets Drop Bucyrus Redmen in Close 43 to 40 Game

Special to The Star

MT. VERNON, Jan. 22—For several weeks N.C.O. fans had been wondering what team would be the initial league victim of the luckless Yellow Jackets of Mt. Vernon High. The answer came on the Mt. Vernon floor last night when an inspired Jacket team played perhaps its best game of the season to deal the favored Bucyrus Redmen their second N.C.O. setback in as many weeks, 43 to 40.

This unexpected outcome, coupled with the equally astounding Marion Harding win over Ashland, drops Bucyrus into third place in the league standings.

Mt. Vernon displayed unusual supremacy over the taller Redmen in practically every department of the game in taking the lead in the final stages of the second quarter and never thereafter relinquishing it. Guard Perkins was the main Jacket threat as he whipped in nine baskets for 18 points, best total for a Mt. Vernon player in league competition this year. For Bucyrus, Forward Danny Benham was high with six buckets and four free throws for 16 points. Center Charley Bryans of the Mounties fouled out in the second period.

Ohio State Faces Test Tonight

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 22—Ohio State's Buckeyes face their first big test of the 1944 Big Ten basketball season in a clash with Northwestern's Wildcats here tonight.

Both teams are unbeaten in Western conference competition, the Bucks defeating Indiana twice while the Wildcats were hanging up three loop victories.

Northwestern whipped Notre Dame for the second time this season, 43 to 36, last night to gain its sixth victory to one defeat against all opposition.

In the other half of a double bill at Chicago Stadium Coach Bill Chandler's Marquette Hilltoppers became the No. 1 "giant killers" of the week with a 51-49 upset of DePaul, in a game testing a proposed new personal foul ruling. Earlier in the week they knocked off previously unbeaten Camp Grant, 46-38.

The experimental ruling in the DePaul-Marquette fracas permitted players with four personal fouls to return to the game after a three minute penalty period on the bench. Three Blue Demons and two Hilltoppers made exits by this route late in the second half, although Bill Chandler Jr., Marquette guard and son of Coach Bill Sr., was the only one to resume action. In all, 34 personals were called, 17 on each team.

Tonight Illinois will try to avenge last night's 56-51 defeat by Iowa and Michigan will remain at Purdue, where last night the Wolverines dropped a 46-44 overtime battle.

Mothers of Cagers Honored at Game

Added attractions on last night's Harding-Ashland basketball program at the Edison gym:

Mothers of the 11 Harding varsity basketballers were honored between halves of last night's game in a traditional ceremony conducted by the school's Senior Hi-Y club. Each of the mothers were presented with a flower by Robert Blake, club Vice President after being introduced to the crowd by E. E. Holt, city superintendent of schools.

Harding's 1944 tumbling team made its debut in a varied half-hour show preceding the game. Under the direction of Vic Dorris, school physical education teacher, the following boys went through their skillful paces: Walter Bartlett, George Roest, Kenny Spears, Russ Harraff, Bob Taylor, Jim Burgess and Dick Gramm. All seven of this "select group" of the 60-man squad participated in assorted tumbling stunts on the mat. Bartlett and Roest performed on the parallel bars. The squad is scheduled to make its second local appearance next Wednesday night at the Harding-Upper Sandusky Junior Varsity game and then give its star "performance" of the season Saturday at the eight-county Galion physical institute.

* * *

To get an idea of just how long and drawn out last night's game was, a person need only be told that the third quarter itself lasted between 25 and 30 minutes, only eight minutes of this being actual playing time. Head Timekeeper Dorris was kept going at his busiest rate of the season with the frequent fouling-outs of players from both teams and other sundry causes for delay in play.

Declares Minors Will Play

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Lashing out at crepe-hangers who foresee a gloomy 1944 for the higher class minor baseball circuits, President Frank Shaughnessy of the International league said today that his clubs were in better shape than last year and nothing but a direct order from the government will stop them.

"Nobody has any right to make predictions at this time," Shaughnessy pointed out, "but I figure that we will have sufficient players to handle the situation. The majors plan to go and so do we. We have signed several men. Some are 4-Fs and some are pre-Pearl Harbor fathers. They aren't going to take all of them, that's certain. If the majors can run, so can we."

Yesterday Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers expressed grave fears that the International, American association and Pacific Coast leagues would have to shut their gates due to the player shortage.

Galion Orangemen Turn Back Shelby Whippets 42 to 26

Special to The Star

GALION, Jan. 22 — Galion's Orangemen are once again in undisputed possession of fourth place in the N.C.O. league set-up after thumping the Shelby Whippets, 42 to 26, here last night. The Orangemen overcame a 13 to 14 first half Shelby lead to win by the proverbial country mile.

Galion pulled to within a point of the Whippets coached by Larry Swackhammer midway in the third period, 21 to 20, and moments later barged into the lead, 22 to 21. The game then proceeded to simulate the well-known see-saw with Shelby going ahead, 23 to 22, and the Orangemen taking their turn, 24 to 23. Then Bob Sheffer's Galion cagers began to pull away from the Shelby invaders and posted a 28 to 23 lead at the three-quarters mark.

Forward Emery Shaffer topped all scorers with nine baskets and a free toss for 19 points while Perman and DeVito, Shelby's two regular forwards, bucketed 10 each to mark up a big majority of their team's total.

The Galion Junior varsity five carried off a 20 to 16 win over the Shelby Reserves in the preliminary. Forward Fendrick of Galion was high in the scoring column with nine markers.

St. Mary Contest Starts at 7:30 P. M.

Marion St. Mary's Irish will be out to stay on the top side of the .500 percentage figure when they meet the Tiffin Calvert Parochials on the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school floor tonight. Varsity competition will commence at 8:30. A reserve tussle has been booked to get under way at 7:30.

The Irish have an even break in ten 1933-44 tries with five wins and a like number of defeats. Calvert, on the other hand, has played a winning schedule thus far, the latest victory being recorded over McCutchenville's Wyandot County league team Tuesday night.

Calvert has been "laying for" St. Mary for several months, ever since Lane McCrate's gridders trimmed the Tiffin Parochials last fall, 7 to 6, in a closely waged contest. A 15-yard last quarter pass from Dan McGinnis to End Frank Tobin gave the Irish the one-point win after Tiffin had held the upper hand for most of the tilt.

The reserve game will match the St. Mary Junior High team with the Pleasant township school cage team.

Claridon Clings To Narrow Lead in County Cage Loop

Claridon High's hoopsters retained their first position lead in the Marion County league by a half-game margin with an easy 41 to 15 triumph over Caledonia's faltering team on the Claridon floor last night but it was a lopsided 51 to 12 trouncing of Meeker's winless crew by LaRue's defending champions that stole the show.

Don Burton's LaRue team, defeated only once this year by the leading Claridon squad, 25 to 21 kept pace with the second place Morral team by overriding Donald Wood's Meeker team, which has been able to score only 58 points in six league frays this season. LaRue is in third place, a half-game behind Morral and a full contest behind Claridon.

Results of other loop games on the full program last night were Morral 57, Green Camp 27; Agosta 34, Prospect 26; Kirkpatrick 55, Waldo 26, and Pleasant 52, Martel 20.

Three High Scorers

Three LaRue cagers either exceeded or came near the 20-mark in individual point production against Meeker. Forward Dennison tallied 12 baskets and two free throws for 26 points. Center Jones had 10 buckets and a free throw for 21 markers, and Wilson, a guard, was good for 19 points on nine goals and one charity toss. The 1943 champs saved their biggest effort until the last quarter when they rolled in 29 points.

Center A. Augenstein scored 15 points for Claridon against Caledonia to increase his season record to 86 points for seven tilts. High point man for the losers was Guard Waite with six points on two goals and the same number of free throws. The leaders kept their points fairly evenly distributed, scoring 17 in the first half and 24 in the last.

Guard Withrow's 14 points were not enough to offset the team coordination of Agosta as his Prospect team, victory-starved in six league games went down to defeat. S. Kirby had 12 points to lead the winners. The score read 7 to 7 at halftime.

Scores 24 Points

High individual scoring performance in the Kirkpatrick-Waldo game was made by Kirkpatrick's Center Lemke, who tipped in 24 counters on 11 baskets and two free throws. L. Klingel, guard for the losing Waldo five, scored 11 to pace his team.

Newland, Morral guard, almost defeated Green Camp singlehanded as he racked up 25 points for the night's scoring laurels. He made 12 buckets and one free toss. For Green Camp, Guard Hammon, was high with 11 points.

Forward John Cusick looped in 13 points to lead his Pleasant team to a one-sided victory over Martel's cagers, who were headed by Loyer with five markers.

Outcomes of Marion County reserve league games last night were Agosta 31, Prospect [illegible]; Caledonia 13, Claridon 15; Kirkpatrick 18, Waldo 17; Morral [illegible], Green Camp 10, and Pleasant [illegible], Martel 22.

Parshall Retires To Become Starter

By The Associated Press

URBANA, O., Jan. 22—H. M. "Doc" Parshall, for years one of the nation's top harness racers, is giving up driving to become a race official.

Parshall, after being called "Doc" for two decades, has just passed the state examination for veterinary surgeons, but he doesn't plan to open an office. He'll become a race starter. However, he expects the veterinary license to "come in handy" around the tracks.

Parshall, for 14 of the past 15 years the country's No. 1 race-winning driver and twice winner of the Hambletonian, was graduated from Indiana State veterinary college 20 years ago. He said he had no trouble passing his exams, despite the lapse of time since he laid down his textbooks.

"Doc" has signed to officiate at four of Ohio's top-flight race meets this year — Marysville, Greenville, Delaware and Jefferson.

BROWN'S ASSISTANT TO QUIT COACHING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—The resignation of Hugh McGranahan as an assistant grid mentor at Ohio State university ends a 10-year coaching partnership.

McGranahan, who announced yesterday he would enter private industry March 1, for 10 years has been assistant to Paul Brown, Ohio State's head football coach. For three years he has been tutor of Buckeye guards.

He said he had been thinking of getting into business for several years, and that because of the manpower shortage it now seemed a logical time to make the change. Brown said he regretted McGranahan's action.

"Back in 1934 at Massillon High school my assistants were Mac, Carroll Widdoes and Fritz Heisler," Brown commented. "Fritz is in the Navy, and now that McGranahan is leaving there are only two of us left.

"I'm sorry our association had to end. Mac's a great guy and we wish him the best of success."

McGranahan was graduated from Mt. Union college in 1925. He starred there in football.

In 1926 he accepted a professorship at the Detroit college of medicine and surgery and the next year transferred to the Detroit Institute of Technology, instructing in engineering and chemistry.

At Detroit Tech he coached football, basketball and baseball. In 1933 he returned to his home town of Alliance, O., to coach junior high teams. In 1934 he joined Brown at Massillon.

Cast Headed by Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland Also Includes Dorsey and Orchestra.

"Girl Crazy" starring Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, "Rags" Ragland and Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace.

Tommy Dorsey and his band are featured in this comedy of the Golden West and recall the Gershwin score from the original musical. Gershwin numbers include "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm," "But Not for Me," "Bidin' My Time" and others.

The story concerns the playboy antics of Mickey Rooney, a powerful publisher's son. Tired of his son's night club attendance, he enrolls him at Cody college in Arizona, hoping to make a man of him. Mickey goes reluctantly, but becomes enthusiastic when he meets the dean's granddaughter, Judy Garland.

Leslie Howard's production, "Spitfire," starring Howard and David Niven, will be shown Thursday through Friday.

"Spitfire" is the story of R. J. Mitchell, inventor of the deadliest fighting plane the world has ever known. Leslie Howard plays Mitchell. David Niven plays the part of a daredevil and debonair test pilot.

The story starts in the far-off time of the first Schneider trophy air races. Mitchell designs a cumbersome biplane which achieves the incredible speed of 120 miles an hour.

On a holiday trip to Germany Mitchell is entertained at the famed Richtofen club. There he sees the glider schools where young Nazis are taught in ironical observance of the Versailles treaty against Germany's rearming. Mitchell meets the sullen Messerschmidt who later designs the plane which is named for him. Mitchell hurries home to plead with officials, but no one sees the danger behind the polished surface of Nazi courtesy.

Goshen Grange Gives Program at Hepburn

Special to The Star

HEPBURN — Goshen Grange met Tuesday. Talks on "Preventing Accident on the Farm and in the Home" were given by Robert Pfeiffer, Bernard Temple, Carey Hastings and Mrs. Pauline Temple. Readings were given by Miss Opal Althouser and Mrs. Kathryn Greentree. Ray Ramge and J. P. Slemon discussed the war bond drive.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. David Eastman are the parents of a daughter born Sunday.

• • •

Hardin Central school has entered a contest sponsored by the U. S. war finance committee to "Buy a Plane" during the Fourth War Loan Drive. To win this contest a total of not less than $15,000 in bonds must be sold. The sales by grades in war stamps and bonds this week is as follows: first, $47.95; second, $14.40; third, $22.85; fourth, $3.50; fifth, $11.93; sixth, $1,057.40; seventh, $13.50, and eighth, $13.55. This is a total of $1,185 for the week, and a total of $5,750.05 since the begining of school.

• • •

Mrs. J. A. Slagle and Mrs. Orpha Virden were hostesses to members of the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church Thursday.

• • •

Pvt. Herbert Coy of Camp Gordon Johnson, Fla., is enjoying a 10-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Coy.

Pvt. Lewis Coates who is stationed at Indianapolis, Ind., with the U. S. Air Force has returned to his duties after a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Coates.

Pvt. Wilbur Olliver who is stationed in an Army training camp in northern Texas visited over the week-end with his sister, Mrs. Freeman Coutts and other relatives.

Ginger Rogers in Week's Opening Program at State

"Once Upon A Honeymoon" starring Carey Grant and Ginger Rogers, and "Calaboose," with Jimmy Rogers and Mary Brian, will play Sunday and Monday at the State.

Using as a theme a light-hearted romance, the picture has dramatic qualities because it has as a background Europe on the brink of the Nazi blitzkrieg. Grant plays the part of an American dancer who has succumbed to a suave German baron.

"Young and Willing," with William Holden and Susan Hayworth, and "Not A Lady's Man," with Paul Kelly and Fay Wray, will be featured Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Shantytown," with Mary Lee and John Archer, and "Rough Riders' Roundup", with Roy Rogers, will complete the week's program playing Thursday through Saturday.

Oxygen improves night vision and for that reason night fliers in the U. S. Army Air Forces use oxygen masks from the time they take off.

RAIL ISSUES IN SPOTLIGHT

Shares and Bonds Play Major Role on Wall Street Stage Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 — Rail stocks and bonds continued to hold the buying play in today's market while industrial leaders generally maintained the timidity exhibited throughout the week.

Fairly steady tendencies per-sisted among shares at the open-ing and, while near closing gains ran to fractions in most cases, there were a few wider movers among liquors and isolated blue chips. Transfers for the two hours approximated 500,000 shares.

Investment as well as specula-tive demand for the transporta-tion section still was credited largely to shelving of the wage question in this field, return of the roads to private ownership and the belief net income would remain at a pleasing level for some time after the arrival of peace in Europe.

Earnings prospects and divi-dend hopes served as props for individual issues.

Stocks ahead the greater part of the time included Southern Pa-cific, Northern Pacific, Schenley, Distillers Corp., Westinghouse, Oliver, Farm, Ohio Oil, General Motors, Du Pont and Goodyear. About even or a trifle lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Consolidated Edison, Montgomery Ward, Boeing and Texas Co.

Artificial Legs Remove Vets from Ranks of Crippled

By The Associated Press

MARE ISLAND, Calif., Jan. 22 —Sailors and Marines who lost legs at Guadalcanal and elsewhere in the Pacific are walking out of the naval hospital here into good civilian jobs, thanks to an unusual rehabilitation program.

Some of them saunter around with little or no signs of a limp. Some dance as enthusiastically as they ever did; a few of them un-dertake to run footraces. Their morale, says Capt. J. P. Owen, hospital commandant, is sky high.

This high degree of rehabilita-tion is attributed by Capt. Owen to a special technique which gives a tailored fit to their artificial legs and a reorientation course which teaches them to do a great many things with as much effici-ency as anyone could show. It demonstrates they do not have to live as cripples.

The tailor-made leg is the re-sult of a cooperative effort by Navy surgeons and civilian agen-cies interested in that kind of rehabilitation. In the past such appliances were standardized, not individually fitted.

Until World war II was well under way, the Navy had no facilities for equipping men with false legs or arms.

One of the outstanding examples of reconstruction is that of Joe Burns, watertender 3rd class, from Pasadena, Calif. During an engagement in the Pacific, Burns was standing on the deck of a ship when an explosive projectile landed in a coil of cable nearby. The blast sent the cable flashing across the deck, cutting off both Burns' lower legs. Now he is walking again, and without crutches.

Some of these men are due to return to service in limited ca-pacities but most will be dis-charged when their rehabilitation is as thorough as the system will permit. Those who return to civilian life have no trouble get-ting jobs, Capt. Owen said.

Several plan to be drivers of trucks or other motor vehicles. One of them expects to take a police job.

SPECULATORS PASS FROM HOG MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 — Specu-lators in the hog market, the men who buy up live animals and resell to packers, have virtually gone out of the picture at the stockyards lately because of gov-ernment price control and the current excessive runs of swine to market.

The final blow to the specu-lator, an important figure in hog trading in the past, fell when ceilings went into effect. Later, when the marketward movement of hogs grew to record breaking volume, prices dropped to the support level. There was more than enough stock available to all meat processors, and specula-tors, unable to buy and sell at a profit, ceased operations.

The speculator is able to make money only when there is a fluctuating market. Ordinarily, he buys at the opening of the market, hoping to resell later to packers at a higher price.

The cattle price program in-augurated by the government is still flexible enough to allow speculative buying and selling, and has not eliminated the specu-lators in that market.

Choice to prime steers were up 25 cents and topped at $17 for the week, all others gained 50 to 75 cents. Trade was active at the advance. Daily holdovers of hogs were the heaviest of the season and prices were nominally un-changed from the previous week. The top was $13.75. Good and choice fed wooled western lambs brought the week's top of $15.85.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I TRIED to keep irritation out of my voice and eyes as I answered Carolyn's question.

"Yes, Carolyn, I am afraid it is absolutely necessary that you be disguised as soon as we get down to our destination," I said. "We must remember that only one consideration is before us now—Marion's rescue—and we must hold ourselves in readiness for any action or inconvenience—which will fit into the rescue plan."

Mary Watches Carolyn

I could almost hear Mary's voice uttering her frequent comment: "That gal knows a stone wall when she sees one." Her keen eyes were watching Carolyn, and with mine they saw the girl's face fall into acquiescent lines.

"Of course, Aunt Madge," Carolyn said with saccharine meekness. "I'm ready to do whatever you say."

"Thank you," I answered, and no one spoke again until the driver stopped the car, and Marston turned to me.

"Please do not get out of the car until I give the word," he said.

I nodded my acceptance of the order, and we all waited until Marston and the other guard had climbed down, sent their keen eyes up and down the sidewalk, and then beckoned to us.

I got out first, with Carolyn following close behind me, and Mary last.

Will Go Up

"We'll just go up with you to the apartment," Marston said, stepping ahead of us. The other guard came close behind Mary as we climbed the narrow stairs single file.

My tense nerves relaxed somewhat as the atmoshere of my father's efficient organization lapped me, and I was able to greet Noel and Adams equably when we reached the second floor apartment my father had rented overlooking the restaurant from which Marion had sent her desperate little note to me through Crump, the waiter.

"Are we the first?" I asked Noel, looking around the room.

"The first?" Noel repeated, with evident surprise.

"Ronald and Halloran, the make-up man, are on their way here," I said. "I hardly expected them to get here before us, but they might have managed it."

"Nobody has come or telephoned," Noel said, and I turned to Adams.

Windows Watched

"You are having the windows watched, I see," I said, with a gesture toward a man stationed in the front window behind a curtain.

"Yes, every minute," he said.

"Will you please ask him if he has seen a woman dressed in deep mourning get out of a taxicab and go into the restaurant?"

He repeated the question to the guard, who shook his head in vigorous dissent.

"Then will you please have him tell me the minute she arrives," I asked, and Adams gave the direction, then turned back to me.

"We have ample guards at the two back entrances of the restaurant," he said. "If those men become suspicious and try to rush her out the back way. The front is amply guarded too, but those innocuous-looking sandwich men. And inside, a number of armed guards in civilian clothing are enjoying a good dinner with one eye upon the table at which your young lady is seated."

Interrupted by Knock

A knock upon the door interrupted him. A minute later, Halloran was in the room, and I was ushering him and Carolyn into another room where I gave him crisp instructions.

"This must be a rush job," I said. "Give her an auburn wig, make her up to look about 35 and fit her with dark glasses. I'll be back in a minute."

I went back to the living room just in time to hear the man at the window announce in rolling tones:

"Taxi just drew up to the restaurant. Lady in deep mourning and two men got out of it. The two men took her to the door of the restaurant, then she motioned them back, and went in alone."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Pituitary's Effect

I have just been spending a few days with the foremost experimental investigator of the ductless glands in the world.

The ductless glands, or the endocrine glands, are small masses of secreting tissue located at quite scattered parts of the body. Best known of them, because it is located most superficially under the skin at the base of the neck, is the thyroid gland. Any one can see and feel this when it enlarges in the form of goiter.

Medical researchers of a hundred years ago had a hard time explaining these structures. They could see when they put them under the microscope that they were made up of cells that looked like glandular secreting cells—something, for instance, like the cells of the salivary glands, enough like them so that the anatomists knew they elaborated a secretion.

But, whereas the salivary glands discharge their secretion into the mouth cavity through a duct, and the secretion can be separated and studied, the endocrine glands have no duct, are not connected with any body cavity, and the only way their secretion could be isolated was to grind up the gland itself and inject it hypodermically into other animals.

But through numerous studies and experiments, of late years we have come to a fairly comprehensive knowledge of the function these endocrine glands perform. In general it may be said that they act as a controller, like the governor on an engine. They supervise and regulate the processes of life. Like the old idea that one or the other is the seat of the soul.

Nothing could illustrate this better than studies on the pituitary gland, located at the base of the skull. It seems to have a regulating effect on all the other ductless glands and to be really the center of the tides of life themselves.

In a research laboratory I have seen a mouse anaesthetized and by an ingenious operation the entire pituitary gland removed. It is almost a minor operation, because five minutes afterwards the mouse is sitting up, licking its paws, and looking around for food. But that mouse will never be the same again. It will never grow to the size of its litter mates. It will never reproduce young. Its hair and bones will be different. It will lead a vegetable existence.

The secretion of this small gland affects the following vital body functions:

1. Growth: An animal deprived of this gland will never grow, no matter how much it eats. But such an animal can have anterior pituitary extract injected into it regularly, and it will start to grow and soon catch up with its litter mates.

2. Milk secretion: Curiously the experimental animal used to show this is the pigeon. The pigeon elaborates milk in its crop and under stimulation by the pituitary lactogenic hormone these crop glands swell up and secrete abundantly.

3. It stimulates the thyroid gland and thus regulates body heat and speeds up the rate of nutrition.

4. It regulates, among other things, hair growth by its effect on the adrenal glands.

5. It also regulates the activity of reproductive life.

6. It has an effect on the utilization of sugar in the body and the production of diabetes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. W.:—My three-year-old daughter has bronchial asthma. She has had the usual allergy tests and is now getting a weekly injection, which she must take for the next four years. Is California's dry climate so beneficial to sufferers that neither diet nor injections are necessary.

Answer:—California is beneficial to the hay fever which occurs in the fall—August 15th to October 1st in the Middle and Eastern United States, but not to the year round variety. California is by no means a dry climate on the sea coast. Most children of three with asthma get over it in any climate.
